Lambeth College UCU is hosting a public meeting to discuss how to tackle institutional racism.

There is a worrying trend across colleges in the UK, and other workplaces, which shows that staff from BME groups feel that they are more likely to be down-graded in lesson observations, less likely to pass their probation and more likely to be placed on disciplinary procedures and dismissed.

There is some evidence and data available to back up these concerns. We will be looking at the data, listening to concerns of affected staff and represented groups, and discussing how we can tackle these issues.

Hosted by Lambeth College UCU branch • Not to be flyposted
